WHY CAMBODIA:

Cambodia recently is considered a next key growth market of breeding success in Asia. It has emerged as one of the fastest growing countries in Asia with annual GDP growth rate over 7%. Agriculture is Cambodia's biggest sector and addition to rice cultivation, there is diversification into other crops including rubber, oil palm, tapioca and corn. At the same time, the increase in meat consumption has seen a sharp increase in aquaculture and modern animal husbandry production. In line with this growth, feed production has also enjoyed strong growth.

In spite of many hurdles intensive livestock production in Cambodia starts to develop. Most of the initiatives and investments are driven by foreign companies who believe in a promising future in this country.
